

3,900 purchases point to a retention opportunity

Made with GAMMA

The customer base is broad, but spending is concentrated

3,900 purchases · 4 categories · 50 locations · ages 18–70

$59.76

Average purchase

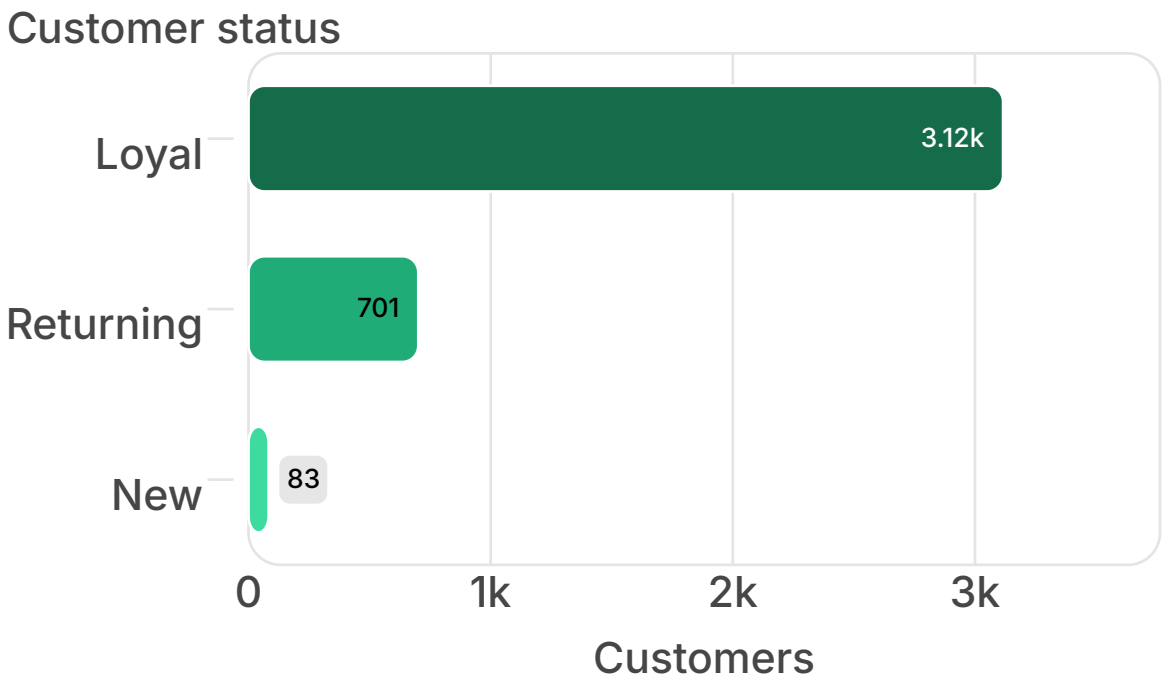

Median purchase: $60

Clothing leads at $164K, followed by Accessories at $74K.

Made with GAMMA

Loyal customers dominate the dataset

Customer status across 3,900 purchases

THE NEXT LEVER

701

Returning customers

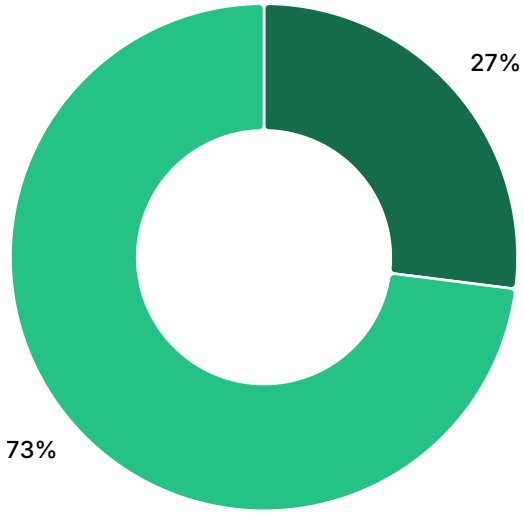

Convert repeat behavior into durable loyalty and subscription value.

Made with GAMMA

3,900 purchases point to a retention opportunity

Subscriptions are underpenetrated, not underperforming

Subscriber share and revenue contribution

Subscribers: 1,053 customers, 27% of the base, generating $62.6K in revenue. Non-subscribers: 2,847 customers, 73% of the base, generating $170.4K.

Average spend: $59.49 for subscribers vs. $59.87 for non-subscribers.

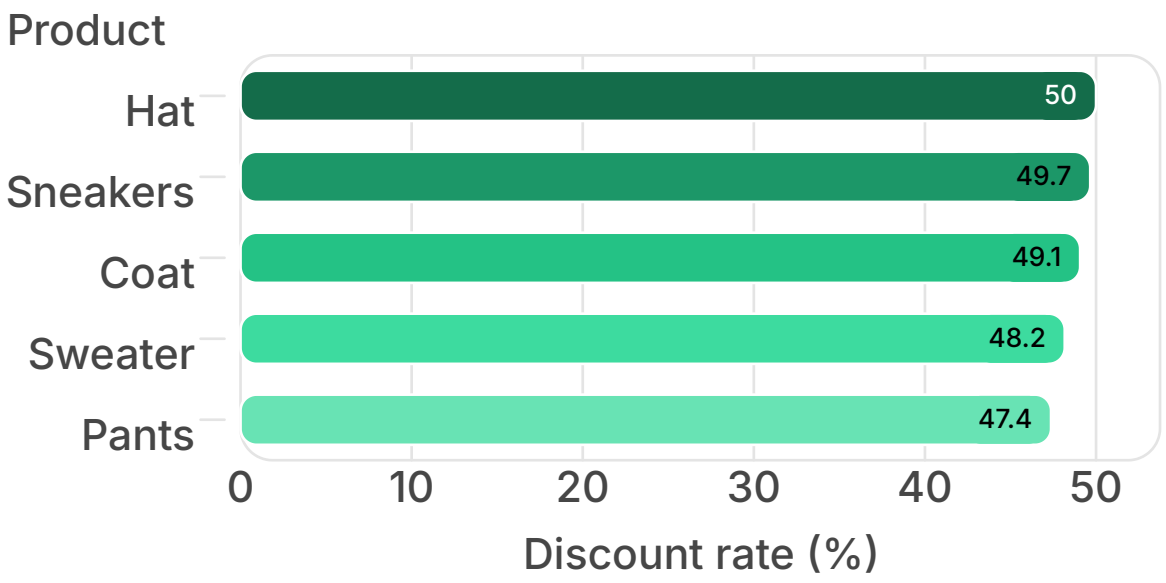

Read: subscription growth needs a stronger value proposition, not just more promotion.

Made with GAMMA

3,900 purchases point to a retention opportunity

Discounts are reaching high-value shoppers, but margin needs attention

Highest discount rates by product

Customers using discounts still appear among above-average spenders.

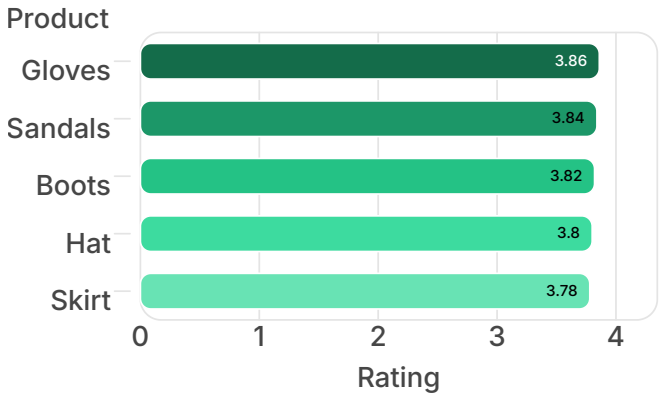

Decision: target discounts where they change behavior, rather than applying them broadly.

Made with GAMMA

3,900 purchases point to a retention opportunity

Product signals are clear enough to sharpen campaigns

DEMAND SIGNALS

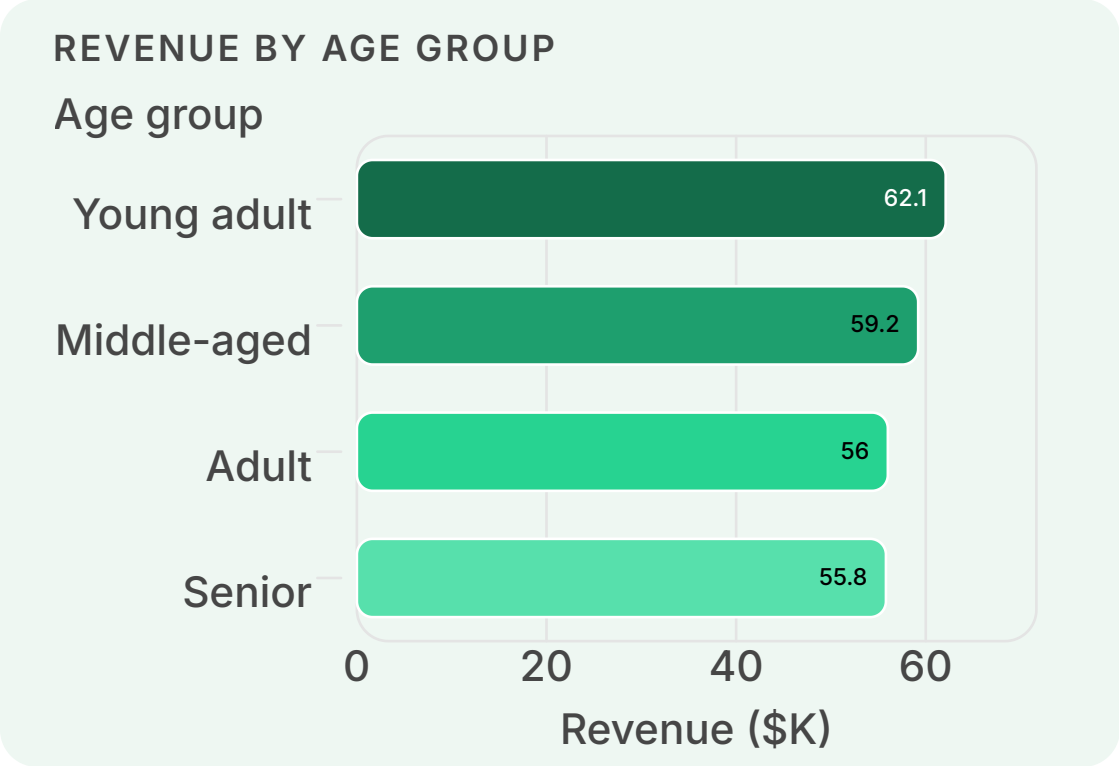

Best-selling examples: Jewelry leads Accessories; Blouse and Pants lead Clothing; Sandals lead Footwear.

Action: pair high ratings with proven demand in seasonal merchandising and paid campaigns.

Made with GAMMA

3,900 purchases point to a retention opportunity

Younger adults lead revenue, while express shipping lifts basket size

Opportunity: focus acquisition on younger adults and test express-shipping messaging at checkout.

Made with GAMMA

3,900 purchases point to a retention opportunity

FROM ANALYSIS TO ACTION

Four moves can turn the analysis into growth

1. Strengthen subscription benefits around convenience, access, or savings
2. Reward repeat buyers and move the 701 returning customers toward loyalty
3. Refine discount rules for high-discount products and measure margin impact
4. Build campaigns around top-rated, best-selling products and high-revenue age groups

Made with GAMMA